

Nicola Wilson, DVM

Oncology

Dr. Nicola Wilson was born in Canada and graduated from the Western College of Veterinary Medicine in Saskatchewan in 2006. She then completed an internship at Oklahoma State University the following year. In 2010, she completed her residency in internal medicine here at Gulf Coast Veterinary Specialists. In addition to her internal medicine residency, she also pursued and completed a residency in oncology, further expanding her expertise. After leaving Gulf Coast, Dr. Wilson was awarded The Fred and Vola Palmer Fellowship, allowing her to complete a second residency in veterinary oncology. Dr. Wilson's medical interests include lymphoma, translational medicine, and the multi-modal approach to cancer therapy as a means of improving patient survival while minimizing negative side effects. Dr. Wilson enjoys spending time outdoors with her husband Kevin and two dogs, Annie and Trigger.